

ABSTRACT

Method and apparatus for decoding a compressed video signal having a first resolution for use by a display unit having a second resolution. The method and 5 apparatus involve downscaling the compressed video bit stream before the bit stream is decoded, which results in a considerable decrease in decoding complexity requiring less memory and lower CPU power usage.